Declaration of Conformity in accordance with
Regulation (EU) 2019/1021 on Persistent Organic Pollutants
(POP Regulation)

Dear Customer,

Regulation (EU) 2019/1021 on persistent organic pollutants (POP Regulation) implements the international Stockholm Convention into European law. Its objective is to protect human health and the environment through specific control measures by prohibiting or restricting persistent organic pollutants (POPs).

List of substances subject to POPs Regulation - ECHA

We, BBC Cellpack GmbH, hereby declare that, to the best of our current knowledge, the products we manufacture, process, and distribute do not contain any substances that fall under the provisions of Regulation (EU) 2019/1021 on persistent organic pollutants (POP Regulation).

The statements provided herein are primarily based on the information received from all manufacturers and raw material suppliers associated with our product portfolio. These statements have not been verified by BBC Cellpack GmbH through laboratory testing.

To ensure compliance:

- we maintain regular communication with our suppliers,
- we request supplier declarations,
- and we commit to informing our customers without delay should we become aware of the presence of POPs in our products.
